So, I just got done playing NITW (I just beat the game for the first time and I definitely plan on replaying it) and I felt the urge to write very badly. Now, I am 99% sure that means I just want to record how I felt about NITW, but I also feel like it weirdly put things in perspective for me?? I don't wanna get too personal about a weird thing I may or may not show you, so I'll leave it at that, but I will say I think I may have enjoyed that game more than the average person I think. Also, wow! Very suspenseful moment in which I did not know if Mae was alive or dead. VERY cool game.

I also wanted to mention that, a long time ago (it feels like a lifetime and a half ago but it was probably less than a year) you told me that I was "stuck in my own head" and god you were right. I dunno if I've told you (probably have), but undoing whatever the fuck I did to myself to make myself such a backwards creature has been really difficult! Not impossible, as I've been making steady progress (if not a little slow), but slow.

Also, while this is mostly unrelated, I may or may not build up the confidence to begin asking you odd questions. Questions that I hope are not too crazy personal, but very well could be! For reference, I plan on asking how you feel about specific things relating to vore, and I have no idea how clammy you are talking about that stuff! I mean, I know that you're comfortable enough talking to have given me a list a while ago, but I recall asking another time and you gave me an answer that hinged more on what your rp partners, and was that out of cagey-ness??? Probably not, you'd probably figured I remembered the previous answer and there wasn't much to add on top of that, but it lead me to read into it in a really specific way years later. Didn't think about that one, didja? Kehehehehehehehe!

No, no, but in all seriousness, I'm trying to let you know that I might ask some questions that fall under the "personal" category, and I remember that's one of the things I'm not supposed to touch. I've kinda got a history with trouncing over boundaries because I'm an idiot and don't perceive them, but that's not an excuse for trouncing boundaries!! If I start making you uncomfortable, speak up! Say anything about it! Doesn't even have to be specific! Just gotta be, like, "I don't wanna answer that question, and I don't wanna elaborate," and I will one-blajillion percent understand. Well, okay, maybe I shouldn't claim to "understand" necessarily (cuz I'm not gonna know the specific context of some specific future moment), but I will understand that you don't want to answer for some reason, and that will be more than acceptable in my book, and I will immediately drop whatever it was.

Anywho, that's it! I'll see you Friday! And sorry for not having a better way to say any of this, it just kinda came outta my head like this